MY FARM STORY

Jim and Jeanne Davis, owners of J Davis Farms, met while serving in the Peace Corps teaching health education and agricultural development in India. Jim grew up on a farm in the Midwest and Jeanne in the orange groves around Fullerton, California. After careers in business and raising a family, they decided to start farming. They first bought land in San Diego County around 35 years ago growing avocados, citrus, and row crops and began selling their produce at a Temecula farmer market. Since then, they have expanded to Orange and Los Angeles counties and employ three people who sell at the markets.

J Davis Farms offers many produce options for customers. While the focus of the farm is different varieties of tangerines and avocados, Japanese persimmons, figs, pomegranates, lemons, limes and kumquats are also available at different times throughout the year. Jim explains that he aims to grow crops all year-round to ensure something is available for his customers throughout the year. Jim mentions that of all the crops he grows at J Davis Farms, he has some favorites. "I enjoy avocados, but I also enjoy tangerines pretty well, and people just enjoy them tremendously at the market."

J Davis Farms is committed to only using organic methods and fertilizers on his farm. In addition, the farm is nearly carbon neutral, using solar panels and growing with sustainable agriculture practices. Jim only brings the freshest produce to the market and enjoys connecting with his customers.
